The City of Birmingham promotes Joseph Lambert to Human Resources Manager

BIRMINGHAM, MI, May 5, 2021 – The City of Birmingham has promoted Joseph Lambert to Human Resources Manager. Lambert is a graduate of Oakland University with a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology and a minor in Employment Systems and Standards (more commonly known as Labor Studies). While attending college, he was a general Human Resources Intern for Easterseals Michigan, specializing in onboarding and followed up with a post-college internship at Quicken Loans in the payroll department.

Lambert’s professional career in Human Resources began at A-Line Staffing Solutions, a medical and pharmaceutical staffing company, as a Human Resources Representative, providing oversight to staffing recruitment functions. He began working for the City of Birmingham as Human Resources Generalist in November of 2017.

“Joe has the desire and ambition, but also has education, experience and the initiative to take the Human Resources Department to the next level,” said Jim Hock, Birmingham Interim Human Resources Director/Assistant City Manager.

The City of Birmingham recognizes Lambert for his years of service and is pleased to congratulate him on his new role.

"I'm very excited to begin this new chapter in my career as the Human Resources Manager for the City of Birmingham," said Lambert. "Through my time here as the Human Resources Generalist, I have learned an invaluable amount of information, and plan to utilize it to the fullest extent possible."
