Route 66 is the “Mother Road” and Illinois is where it all begins. From the majestic skyline of Chicago to the Mighty Mississippi, you’ll experience the romance of the road and discover the legendary people and places that have given millions of travelers their “Kicks on Route 66.”

Unlike traditional highways that ran north-south or east-west, Route 66 followed the trail blazed by American history itself. A look at 66 on the map is a glimpse at the direction of transportation and commerce of the country from the 1830’s to the present. From the beginning, this is a story that “begins” with Chicago as the gateway to an “end” in the great American west…a compelling story of modern American freedom and mobility.

In 1926, America was on the move and Route 66 became the way to “motor west.” The road gave birth to service stations, motels, diners and of course, often kitschy roadside attractions to entertain travelers on their journey. Today, Illinois 66 is a continuum of one-of-a-kind connections to the old road…neon signs, filling stations, mom and pop diners and unique roadside attractions, all set against the backdrop of America’s agricultural heartland.

From 1926 to the period just after World War II, a significant cultural change transformed America. People’s worlds expanded outside their communities and their ability to move about the country was enabled by the relative affordability of personal transportation. Route 66 represented the opportunity of freedom on the open road – empowerment for all classes of people.

Route 66 symbolized the renewed spirit of optimism that pervaded the country after the economic catastrophe and global war. Route 66 made things happen. It transformed people and places. It is romantically believed that these transformations were mostly improvements – that Route 66 was a product of a Golden Age for America and its people.

The individuals who lived during the Depression, World War II and the Cold War may have disagreed with that glittering assessment of the era. Nonetheless, even during the anxious periods in our nation’s history, the power of Route 66 to transform travelers into new people and the American landscape into new opportunities was acknowledged.

By the time Americans were heading west in the 1960’s, Route 66 and its many points of interest along the way were familiar landmarks. The television show, “Route 66” starring Martin Milner and George Maharis featured a convertible view of America, with stories of discovery, hope, fortune, rebellion, empowerment and change. The show captivated an entire post-WWII generation and instilled the sense of adventure that Route 66 travelers still seek today.

Route 66 is arguably one of the most famous roadways in the world. It has come to represent the American Dream – the freedom, passion and spirit of the people whose lives intertwined with 2448 miles of pavement to make an eternal mark on our country’s cultural landscape. U.S. Route 66 is legendary, and the legacy of Route 66 is reflected in special people and places through the poignant stories they tell. And, Illinois is where it all begins.

For over 50 years, between 1926 and 1977, U.S. Highway 66 was the principal roadway that connected Illinois with the Great West. As Tom Teague wrote in Searching for 66,

“At its birth in 1926, this road was hailed as a great agent of progress – concrete ribbon tying the west coast to the rest of America. And for a wondrous half-century, it embraced and embodied this nation like few institutions can. TV glorified it. Song-writers romanticized about it. Okies drove it out of the Dust Bowl. And scarcely an American alive did not dream at some time of setting wheel to pavement along its way.”

“Route 66,” declared Congress in legislation passed in 1990, “has become a symbol of the American people’s heritage of travel and their legacy of seeking a better life.” This Congressional finding concluded by stating that it “has been enshrined in American popular culture.”

Historically, the road reflects a time in our country of tremendous achievement in commerce, particularly reflected by the mass-production of the automobile, the development of the nation’s road system and the travel services that were spawned by a nation of motorists.

Culturally, Route 66 became the icon for this dynamic shift in American life. Nearly everything we did as Americans, particularly as it related to travel, was impacted by the evolution and revolution of this amazing road.
Throughout the world, Route 66 came to symbolize the freedom, opportunity and mobility of the nation through its appreciation in classic literature, music, film, television and the arts.

The national significance of Route 66 is undeniable. Thousands of travelers from throughout the United States, as well as from around the world make driving Route 66 their “destination.” The road continues to be a source of inspiration for artists, authors, film-makers and musicians and the power and romance of this road continue to be discovered. And, as it was in the beginning, the road continues to be a powerful driver of commerce and economic opportunity.

Illinois, the only Route 66 state east of the Mississippi River, is where the road begins. Chicago, a well-established transportation hub and international destination, anchors the road at its eastern terminus and launches a driver on an unforgettable American journey.

AUTO MILESTONES

Milestones. Each person's life has them, and so does the life of the auto industry. Some auto milestones, such as the introduction of hydraulic brakes and the automatic transmission, are big. Others, such as power windows, are smaller — but still significant.

Here are some of the most significant milestones:

- 1896: pneumatic tires
- 1897: auto insurance
- 1901: speedometers and license plates
- 1902: speed limits and speeding tickets
- 1905: installment plan for auto purchase
- 1908: Cadillac presents interchangeable auto parts
- 1911: electric self-starter and painted highway lines
- 1912: first gas station
- 1914: first stop sign and stoplight
- 1915: all-steel car body
- 1916: brake lights and review mirror
- 1920: hydraulic brakes
- 1921: automatic windshield wipers
- 1922: first suburban shopping center, gas gauges and back-up lights
- 1923: car radios
- 1924: four-wheel brakes
- 1925: first coast-to-coast highway: Lincoln Highway links New York to San Francisco
- 1926: shatter-resistant glass, Route 66 opens from Chicago to Los Angeles
- 1928: first coast-to-coast bus service
- 1933: first drive-in theater
- 1935: first parking meters
- 1936: first drive-in restaurant
- 1937: power brakes
- 1938: electric turn signals and air conditioning
- 1939: automatic transmission
- 1940: first limited-access highway: The Pennsylvania Turnpike
- 1946: first auto advertising on national television
- 1948: tubeless tires
- 1949: ignition key
- 1950: power windows
- 1951: power steering
- 1958: price stickers and cruise control
- 1960: car sunroof
- 1964: front seatbelts become standard
- 1967: ignition key reminder buzzer
- 1971: anti-lock brakes
- 1972: air bags and radial tires
- 1975: catalytic converter to reduce emissions
- 1984: mini spare tire
- 1989: traction control
- 1996: guidance systems that summon help after accident
WAYSIDE EXHIBITS AND EXPERIENCE HUBS

Wayside Exhibits
We are proud to showcase the Wayside Exhibits for the Illinois Route 66 Scenic Byway. These Exhibits offer the traveler a distinct and interactive opportunity to connect with each community through the history of Route 66.

Culturally, Route 66 became an icon for a dynamic shift in American life. Nearly everything we did as Americans, particularly related to travel, was impacted by the evolution and revolution of this amazing road. Throughout the world, Route 66 came to symbolize the freedom, opportunity and mobility of the nation through its appreciation in classic literature, music, film, television and the arts.

The state of Illinois, the only Route 66 state east of the Mississippi River, is Where the Mother Road Begins. Chicago launches drivers down this historic ribbon as it unwinds through unique communities, large and small, all the while telling tales of traveling musicians, famous outlaws and folks just looking to head west.

Because Route 66 has such a distinctive personality, the wayside exhibits themselves reflect the designs of the 1940’s and 50’s automotive industry. The streamlined shapes, angles and curves, chrome and neon of that era were the design elements that were used to develop the Exhibits for Illinois Route 66.

Each Wayside Exhibit tells a unique story about that location and Route 66. Travelers will be able to learn about the Marx Brothers Chicken Farm, a pitched gun battle between striking miners and mine guards, the World’s Largest Covered Wagon, the art of cruising the Downtown and a State Police District Headquarters that is shaped like a gun. The Route 66 stories on display at classic restaurants, service stations and attractions make those stops even more memorable.

You will now be able to enjoy the Wayside Exhibits as you stop and explore the Byway communities on your Illinois Route 66 adventure.

Experience Hubs
We are very pleased to introduce travelers on the Mother Road to the Illinois Route 66 Scenic Byway Experience Hubs. These Experience Hubs are Kiosks that help tell visitors the story of Route 66 in Illinois and help them find their way to the locations where those stories took place.

Each of the Kiosks has an interpretive panel that talks about the history of Route 66 in that region and another panel that highlights the attractions in that area and how to find them.

There is also a large panel with a map of Route 66 throughout Illinois. Each of the Kiosks is nine feet tall and will be lit at night with the name of the host community. Visitors will also be able to listen to Bobby Troup singing his song, “Route 66” at every Experience Hub.

Wayside Exhibits are located in the following Illinois Route 66 communities:

Berwyn
Romeoville
Joliet
Wilmington
Dwight
Pontiac
Normal
Lincoln
Springfield
Carlinville
Litchfield
Edwardsville
Chain of Rocks (Madison)

THE ALIGNMENTS

THE ROUTE 66 ALIGNMENTS IN ILLINOIS

As the automobile culture in America evolved, so did the Mother Road. Each of the three alignments of Route 66 in Illinois has a history that offers travelers a unique experience.

1926 - 1930

While Route 66 did not exist until 1926, in 1924, State Bond Issue 4 (SBI 4) is a route that that became an all weather road that connecting Chicago to St. Louis. The 1926 alignment of Route 66 follows SBI 4 and is the reason that Illinois was the first state to boast having Route 66 paved from end to end. Prohibition was in effect from 1920 until 1933 and an all weather road made the transportation of illegal alcohol possible virtually all year long. Prohibition was in effect from 1920 until 1933 and an all weather road made the transportation of illegal alcohol possible virtually all year long. Production stills located in central and southern Illinois could easily ship alcohol on Route 66 to speakeasies in Chicago and St. Louis. There is still pavement in use today that was laid between 1922 and 1924 (SBI 4, later Rte. 66) and is characterized by a road width of only 18'-20'. The average speed was 25 mph. Cars share the road with horse-drawn vehicles and tractors as they pass through the many small towns on this alignment.

1930 - 1940

Rum running is in full swing until prohibition is repealed in 1933. Cars now have a top speed of 60 - 80 mph. Speed limits are now set by states and municipalities and the moniker “Bloody 66” is widely used. By 1936 the Chicago to St. Louis portion of Route 66 is the heaviest traveled long-distance highway in the state. As a result the Road is re-routed to bypass larger more congested communities such as Springfield and Joliet. By 1940, a maximum speed limit is set at 70mph. It is also during this period that picnic and rest areas are recognized as a necessary part of highway planning.

1940 - 1977

In June of 1940, as WWII rages in Europe and Asia, President Roosevelt asks for a study on the use of the Nation’s highways to meet defense needs. The result is the Highways for the National Defense report which identified two types of defense roads; Roads required for defense operations and roads required to improve the strategic network of defense roads. Route 66 plays a strategic role in the war effort through transportation of personnel, equipment and munitions. The next significant redesign occurs in 1951 and exceeds all other redesigns since 1928. The 1956 Highway Act begins the construction of the Interstate Highway System which ultimately replaces Route 66 as the main transportation route west. Many sections of Route 66 become I-55 by the end of 1956. By 1977 the Mother Road is deemed obsolete in Illinois, as much of it had been replaced by interstate 55. The last sign is removed on January 17, 1977. The entire road is decommissioned on June 27, 1985.

Bank of Dwight
132 East Main Street
(815) 584-1855
The Bank of Dwight, opened in 1855 by David McWilliams, is the oldest state chartered bank still in operation under its original charter and the third oldest bank in Illinois. The current building was built in 1910 and features an original dome mural painted by Viennese artist, Oskar Gross.

Keeley Institute/William Fox Development Center
134 West Main Street
(815) 584-1652
dwightillinois.org
The former Keeley Institute for the treatment of alcoholism and drug addiction is known for its stained glass windows (depicting the five senses) and for the rich and famous patients treated there. With prohibition and the downsizing of the Keeley Institute, the building served as a Veteran’s Administration Hospital from 1926-1966. The building today serves as the William W. Fox Development Center.

First National Bank of Dwight
122 West Main Street
(815) 584-1210
Designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, this bank was constructed in 1905. It housed the real estate office and bank of Frank L. Smith, a prominent local citizen, U.S. Congressman and Senator. It was remodeled in the 1960’s using Wright’s original ideas and remains the only one of his three bank designs still standing.

Odell Subway Tunnel
il66assoc.org
Across from Saint Paul’s Church is an entrance to a 1937 pedestrian tunnel under Route 66, known locally as the “subway.” The entrance was sealed in the 1950’s. The first 3 steps and the railing were replaced in the spring of 2006 by the Illinois Route 66 Association. The fact that this tunnel was a necessity to safely cross the Route 66 is a surprise to anyone standing on the quiet corner today. It is a dramatic reminder of the importance of Route 66 as a national travel corridor.

CAYUGA

Meramec Caverns Barn
il66assoc.org
Also known as the Cayuga Barn, this is a restored example of early highway advertising (Meramec Caverns is in Stanton, Missouri). A pull-off area from Route 66 was created so travelers could safely exit the road and take photographs. It is one of two remaining advertisement barns along Illinois Route 66. It was restored by the Route 66 Association of Illinois Preservation Committee.

Betty Estes

If you knew Betty Estes for any amount of time, you knew a woman who was passionate about life and the things she loved within it. As she readily admitted whenever someone would listen - her faith, family and friends were at the top of the list. But very, VERY close behind, was her beloved Pontiac, Illinois and its famous landmark, Rt. 66.

Although Betty was nearing 70 when she became the first tourism director of Pontiac in 1989, she embraced the role with her trademark energy, zeal and creativity. For Betty and her “unpaid assistant”, her husband Dal, the preservation and celebration of Rt. 66 was deeply rooted in their love of history, and their belief that “America’s Main Street” should never be forgotten.

Creating a great first impression of Pontiac for anyone and everyone who visited was Betty’s goal. Frequently, she would make breakfast or dinner at her home for a group of traveling tourists journeying down Rt. 66. Often she would join them at the Old Log Cabin to continue their personal tour. Although Rt. 66 brought these strangers to Pontiac, Betty’s warmth ensured they left as friends. More often than not, they would return and bring others to Pontiac, which for her was the greatest reward. She received cards and letters of thanks from all over the world, and kept up correspondence with many throughout the years.

In 2002 she created the “Red Carpet Corridor” a joint project with the towns of Dwight and Odell to promote the “Mother Road”. In 2004, she convinced the Pontiac Mayor and City Administrator to find the funding needed to bring the Rt. 66 Museum to Downtown Pontiac. Because of these efforts, the Illinois Rt. 66 Heritage project recognized her work and created a scholarship at the University of Illinois in her name. Additionally, one of her greatest honors was being inducted into the Rt. 66 Hall of Fame. But more than the awards and honors, Betty was blessed to make wonderful lifelong friends along Rt. 66, including Lenore and John Weiss, Kevin McNamara of Dwight and many others. She was always grateful for their presence in her life.

Although Betty was battling cancer, her spirit and energy for Pontiac never diminished. When she was undergoing chemotherapy treatment in Chicago, Betty would bring Rt. 66 and Pontiac brochures and leave them on the tables in the waiting room at Northwestern University. Even as she was hooked up to IV’s, she would enthusiastically encourage the nurses and the techs to come visit “her Pontiac”. Betty Estes was truly one of a kind.

She passed away June 20, 2012, at her home, surrounded by her family. She and her husband Dal had six children, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Her legacy and spirit continues through them, and through the Betty Estes Community Scholarship, a fund created in her memory to encourage community involvement by the youth.

Built in 1926, the restaurant originally faced the older Route 66 alignment. It is claimed to have been lifted and turned 180 degrees when the alignment changed at the intersection of Pontiac Road (two-lane 66) and the four-lane 66 on the north edge of town. The building has been expanded over the years. It is a classic example of the economic significance that Route 66 had on roadside businesses. The restaurant still serves food to travelers. Open Monday through Saturday 5 a.m. to 8 p.m. Closed Sundays.

Towanda Dead Man’s Curve
A dangerous curve on Old Route 4. Part of the original Route 66 before the 1940’s this dangerous curve on Old Route 4 caught travelers unaccustomed with the curve often misjudged its sharpness and narrow width — just 18 feet wide for two-way traffic. The curve was bypassed after WWII. This curve became a familiar site to patrolling District 6 State Highway Police. Many of these accidents were caused by travelers from Chicago speeding on an unfamiliar road. A house located west of the curve was removed after a semi-trailer truck ran off the road, knocking the structure off its foundation. Before this event, the homeowners had replaced the front porch numerous times because of the damage from cars and trucks crashing into it.

Carlinville

"Where Lincoln Walked and Route 66 Rolled..."
halfway between Springfield, IL and St. Louis, on the old “Mother Road”.

Dine and shop on the only Town Square in Illinois that Route 66 goes completely around. You’ll find brick-paved streets and cast-iron Victorian storefronts. Buildings that date back to when Abraham Lincoln practiced law here. An 1869 grand hotel some say is haunted today. The original location of Route 66 landmark Ariston cafe. And a gazebo where bands still play summer evening concerts.

A block away is Macoupin County’s magnificent “Million Dollar” Courthouse. Intended as a $50,000 project, by the time work halted in 1870, the cost had ballooned to over $1 million. (The County Clerk involved boarded a train one night and was never heard from again!) One of Illinois’ great political scandals, today the American Institute of Architects calls it one of the “150 Great Places in Illinois”.

Right across Route 66 from the Courthouse, you’ll find the Macoupin County Jail of 1869. Cannonballs from the Civil War were placed in the walls to prevent jailbreaks. It has housed bootleggers and bandits... a murderer was once hanged here, on a gallows out back.

In the Standard Addition District, visit the largest collection of Sears homes in the U.S. In 1913, when Standard Oil opened mines nearby, 156 kit homes were ordered from the Sears catalog, delivered and built within a year. 151 are still standing today.

Nearby, at the Macoupin County Historical Society, tour a Victorian mansion, a one-room schoolhouse, a country chapel, old-time blacksmith and print shops. Don’t miss the Spring and Fall Festivals here, with antique steam farm machinery, craft demonstrations, live music, and home-made food—especially Strawberry Shortcake!

There’s a classic car Cruise-In on the Square, July 27, with 1960s dances, a 50s-60s dress contest, and an ice cream social— the largest nighttime Halloween Parade in Illinois each October— and the famous Carlinville Christmas Market, with craft vendors, live entertainment, trolley tours, food and fun every December. And in every season, all over town, you’ll find unexpected surprises— Magnolia’s Restaurant, fine dining in the renovated hall of an old German Catholic Church; the Refuge Coffee House, in a former five-and-dime store on Route 66; the Body Depot salon, in the old interurban railroad station; Taylor’s world-famous Chili Parlor. Crabby’s 1950’s era supper club. Try to get here just before noon, so you can hear the lunchtime siren that still blows every day from the bell tower of the old City Hall just off the Square.

It’s all waiting for you in Carlinville, IL—
"Where Lincoln Walked and Route 66 Rolled..." and more!

Macoupin County "Million Dollar" Courthouse
200 East Main Street
(217) 854-3211
macoupincountyil.gov
Designed by famed architect E.E. Meyers in 1867, the building began as a $50,000 project supported by bonds and taxes. Through a series of political and social scandals the courthouse construction was halted in 1870 with a total cost of $1.3 million (1870 dollars) and at the time was the second largest courthouse (the one in New York was the largest) in the U.S. The 3rd floor courtroom was never completed and the planned ornamental statues were never commissioned. It took the county 40 years to pay off the debt and inspired the nickname "The Million Dollar Courthouse." It is recognized as the most magnificent courthouses in Illinois.

Macoupin County Jail of 1869
205 East First South Street
(217) 854-2141
carlinvillechamber.com
The historic jail was in service from 1869 to 1988. This Gothic Revival stone structure has leftover Civil War cannonballs embedded within the walls to prevent jail breaks. There is a local tale of a man who shimmied through the narrow slit windows to escape. He walked to the town square where he had a beer at a local tavern and then walked back to the jail where he walked in through the front door and put himself back into his cell.

Mother Jones Monument and Union Miners Cemetery
700 North Lake Street
(217) 999-4261
illinoislaborhistory.org/union-miners-cemetery.html

Miners killed in the Virden Mine Riot were denied burial in the established cemeteries. In response, the local union purchased a one-acre site and the bodies were moved to the new Union Miner’s Cemetery in 1899. Over the years, additional land was acquired and a monument was dedicated on October 11, 1936. The cemetery is the final resting place of Mary Harris “Mother” Jones, a fierce advocate for the rights of both miners and children. Before her death at the age of 100 in 1930, Mary Jones requested to be buried with “her boys” – the coal miners that she championed for decades. The cemetery is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Soulby’s Service Station
201 S. Route 66
rts66.com

In 1926 Henry Soulby and his son Russell built a Shell gas station. Today it ranks as one of the oldest filling stations still standing on Route 66. The original 1926 station was a mere 13 x 20 feet wide and had just enough room for a desk, cash register, battery charger, and a few supplies. The Soulby’s doubled the size of the station in the 1930’s, but it was never big enough to be called a garage. A drive up ramp located outside of the station was used for oil changes and minor repairs now has a large tree growing inside it. Russell learned about electronics in the Navy during WWII and started a TV repair business in the 1950’s, which allowed him to survive the opening of I-55. After Henry died, Russell and his sister Ola ran the station until 1991, and continued to greet visitors until 1997. The new station owner is working with the Soulsby Station Society and the Illinois Route 66 Association to maintain this classic filling station as a historical and educational attraction.

Illinois Route 66 National Scenic Byway
The Illinois Route 66 National Scenic Byway is one of seven diverse Illinois Scenic Byways. These roads are known as American Byways, leading travelers to must-see destinations throughout Illinois. From the northwestern corner of the state to its southern tip, from the bustling city of Chicago to the smallest rural villages, the Illinois byways serve as gateways to America's heartland.

During your visit take pleasure in the spirit of adventure as well as peaceful relaxation while discovering all that the Illinois Byways have to offer! Enjoy: winding rivers, grassy plains, historic attractions, outdoor recreation, beautiful wildlife, antiques, tasty dining and cozy lodging.

About America’s Byways®
One hundred and fifty distinct, diverse roads in 44 states have been recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Transportation as the most significant routes throughout the country based on their scenery, natural, culture, history, archaeology and recreational opportunities. America’s Byways include the National Scenic Byways and All-American Roads.

The National Scenic Byways Program
The National Scenic Byways Program is part of the U.S. Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration. The program is a grass-roots collaborative effort established to help recognize, preserve and enhance selected roads throughout the United States.

The vision of the Federal Highway Administration’s National Scenic Byways Program is “To create a distinctive collection of American roads, their stories and treasured places.” Our mission is to provide resources to the byway community in creating a unique travel experience and enhanced local quality of life through efforts to preserve, protect, interpret, and promote the intrinsic qualities of designated byways.

Museum and Archival Library
715 North Main Street
(618) 656-7562
madisoncountymuseum.org
Come learn about the people, places and events that have shaped Madison County throughout its century plus history. Located in the second oldest brick house in Edwardsville, the 1836 Weir House depicts the county’s history through displays of antiques, costumes, quilts, and Native American artifacts. Open Wednesday through Friday: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturday: 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Free admission.

Leclaire Village Historic District
In 1890, industrialist N.O. Nelson chose a tract of land just south of Edwardsville to locate his plumbing manufacturing company. He would also create a model “utopian” village here called Leclaire, where everyone had their own home, access to schools, parks, lectures, recreation and employment. Nelson believed in profit-sharing and all employees had a stake in the company. Nelson was a visionary and is considered to be a renaissance man, years ahead of his time.

Wildey Theatre
252 North Main Street
(618) 307-2053
wildeytheatre.com
Come out and catch a classic movie or watch a live performance at this recently renovated 102 year old theater house. GLEN CARBON

Yanda Log Cabin
148 South Main Street
(618) 288-7271
glen-carbon.il.us
This historic cabin is believed to have been built by blacksmith William Yanda in 1853. William Yanda (1818-1885) and his wife Anne Zeolla (1823-1901) were immigrants from Bohemia, Austria. William and Annie and their ten children lived in the cabin. Frank (1846-1912), their oldest son also became a blacksmith. He practiced his craft in other towns in the area and eventually moved back to the “homeplace” in 1882 with his Anna Benda (1845-1912). Frank and Anna raised eleven children in the cabin. He sold the cabin to his son Frank Jr. (one of the early mayors of the Village of Glen Carbon). The Village of Glen Carbon bought the lot and cabin in 1989. A cabin renovation began in 1989 and was concluded in time for the Village’s Centennial Celebration in June 1992.

Glen Carbon Covered Bridge
South Main Street
The bridge was constructed in 1976 to celebrate the 200th birthday of the United States. Today, it serves as a Village focal point.

A 4-mile self guided nature trail on Walker Island features several observation areas ideal for bird watching, Fishing, boating, picnicking, and camping are popular activities.

MICHIGAN CITY

Bel-Air Drive-In Sign
1117 East Chain of Rocks Road
The drive in was opened in the 1950’s and showed movies until 1987. The theater no longer exists, but the landmark sign was saved when the land was converted to other uses.

Luna Café
201 East Chain of Rocks Road
(618) 931-3152
The café was built in 1924, two years prior to the establishment of Route 66. It is rumored to have been frequented by gangsters like Al Capone. The Luna did operate as a café on the main floor, but had a gambling operation in the basement and a “house of ill repute” upstairs. The neon sign out front, still standing, has a cherry which used ruby glass to enhance its red glow. It is said that if the cherry was lit, the girls were in. At one time, the café was a “fine dining establishment” and so expensive that most law-abiding citizens could not afford to eat there. There is an ongoing effort to have the neon sign restored to its former glory.

GRANITE CITY

Lewis & Clark State Historic Site Interpretive Center
1 Lewis and Clark Trail
(618) 251-5811
campdubois.com
This state-of the-art interpretive center is located at the winter camp area of the Lewis and Clark expedition. It focuses on the often-untold Illinois story, where the expedition was prepared and launched. The focal point exhibit is a 55-foot full-scale replica of the expedition’s keel boat. This is the starting point for the National Lewis and Clark Heritage Trail. Open Wednesday through Sunday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bill Shea

Born only a block away from Route 66, Bill Shea has practically built his whole life around The Mother Road. After serving his country in all five campaigns of WWII and having landed on Utah beach on D-Day, Bill came home and opened his first Texaco service station on Route 66. The station moved a few blocks down and eventually started pumping Marathon gas, but Bill and his family never left The Road. He has spent practically his entire life helping and entertaining travelers from all over the world.

Bill Shea’s Gas Station Museum grew out of Bill Shea Sr., and his son Bill Jr.’s passion for gas station and Route 66 memorabilia. You will find everything from old gas pumps, a streamliner trailer, phone booths, and vintage advertisements. If you pay attention, you can catch some of Mr. Shea’s wit in his displays and famous hand-made signs (such as ‘I started out with nothing, and I have half of it left.’) Bill’s Route 66 journey has been captured by the thousands of photos that journalist and visitors from all over the world take of him and his collection.

Mr. Shea celebrated his 66th year on Route 66 in 2012 and had a representative from his 90th country sign his guest book recently. When asked ‘How do you and your family feel about Route 66?’ Bill will often reply, “We’re a part of it [Route 66] and it is part of us.”

While Bill can no longer be at the gas station museum, his son, Bill Jr. will open up by appointment whenever he can. For more info call the Springfield Convention & Visitors Bureau at 800-545-7300.

GREAT RIVER ROAD

Looking out over the river, it is almost impossible to comprehend the complex layers of history that have been acted out along its banks. From the large communities of the Hopewell Indian culture – the most complex society in North America and early French colonial settlements and fortifications to the frightened, cautious, and optimistic eyes of slaves seeking freedom on the Underground Railroad, this corridor has played a role in many of this continent’s most dramatic hours.

It is from the Great River Road that most visitors and residents understand and define their relationship with the Mississippi. It is from this road that the historic sites and cultural artifacts of the area can be accessed, from Native American mounds to the Mormon (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints) temple. The beautiful Mississippi bluffs tower over the Byway as the permanent sentinels for the great river. Whether directly along the banks of the river or winding through the vast flood plain miles from the water; the Great River Road links resources, people, and history.

HISTORIC NATIONAL ROAD

Celebrate early Illinois history at the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. Come see the remains of the most sophisticated Indian civilization north of Mexico, preserved within a 2,200-acre tract. Make a stop at the visitor center before you wander the grounds and follow the interpretative signs. Visit an old stockade, 24 different mounds, and traces of a horizon calendar, known as Woodhenge. Illinois isn’t called the “Land of Lincoln” for nothing. Spend your time learning about our sixteenth president at his parents’ farm. From American Indian settlements to presidential neighborhoods, travel the National Road today to trace the evolution of a state and people.

ILLINOIS LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Lincoln Highway was the first coast-to-coast highway in the United States. Illinois is the only state along that highway to receive a National Scenic Byway designation – we’re proud to share it with you! This byway spans 179 miles across northern Illinois -- from Lynwood on the east to Fulton on the west. You can travel it in a day or take 2-3 days to discover what each of the over 40 communities has to offer – quaint shops, bed and breakfasts, sports, hiking/biking, delicious restaurants, a working windmill, a casino, museums, fountains, and much more. Stop into Dixon’s Welcome Center to view the Lincoln Highway Interpretive Center and as you discover Rochelle, Creston, and DeKalb – don’t miss their interpretive murals.

illinoisbyways.org
The Illinois River Road Scenic Byway preserves the natural river country along the banks of the Illinois River, allowing modern visitors to travel the same route as the early French explorers: les Voyageurs. The Byway parallels the Illinois River Country Nature Trail, a chain of over one hundred linked nature sites that offer outdoor recreation in the Illinois River Valley. For years, the Illinois River has served as the main artery for life in this part of Illinois. Several species of migrating waterfowl and other wildlife make their home in the wetland and forest habitats along its banks. Natural areas such as the Wildlife Prairie State Park and the Emiquon TNC Preserve and National Wildlife Refuge provide a varied and beautiful habitat for several of the species that have come to characterize the American frontier experience, such as buffalo, wild geese, and the American bald eagle. These nature areas also contain miles of hiking and biking trails, allowing visitors to listen to the songbirds, enjoy the brilliant autumn colors, or participate in winter sports such as cross country skiing and snowmobiling. The canal’s towpath is now part of a National Heritage Corridor, acting as a hiking/biking trail and connecting several historic sites related to this important waterway.

The Meeting of the Great Rivers Scenic Route provides an expansive view of the floodplain where the Mississippi, Missouri, and Illinois River join together to flow to the ocean. Rich in historic significance and natural beauty, the junction of these mighty rivers demonstrates both American river culture and American pioneer spirit. Learn the legend of the Piasa bird at the Alton Museum of History and Art, and then follow the Route southward to see a modern artist’s rendition of the pictograph on the side of the cliff. Just outside of Alton lie the remains of a federal prison, as well as a sobering monument marking the mass grave of Confederate prisoners that died there during the Civil War. Cyclists will find challenge and beautiful scenery along the Sam Vadalabene Bike Trail. The trail parallels the Mississippi, running past rocky bluffs and through several historic towns. The Meeting of the Great Rivers Scenic Route allows visitors to discover the natural and historical heritage of southern Illinois.

This history-rich Byway meanders along the Ohio River banks, hugging its shoreline and offering almost continuous views of the river. The history of the Ohio is found both in rural landscapes and quaint river communities, covering periods from Native American habitation through western settlement, affecting transportation patterns and industrialization. So, take a relaxing drive on the Ohio River National Scenic Byway which features some of Southern Illinois’ premier attractions and picturesque countryside.
