NORTH HAVEN CONTINUES TO TAKE PRECAUTIONS IN RESPONSE TO CORONAVIRUS (COVID-19)

NORTH HAVEN – First Selectman, Michael J. Freda, would like to provide an update to North Haven residents on continued action the Town is taking regarding the COVID-19. This past week, the following decisions were implemented including closing North Haven Public Schools, the Senior Center, Library and Community Services Daycare. In addition, all non-essential meetings and scheduled programs were suspended throughout Town buildings.

As reports of the spread of Coronavirus increase, effective Wednesday, March 18th, First Selectman Freda is imposing additional measures including closing all remaining Town buildings.

Town employees will continue to be working to answer calls and assist the public. Any critical needs that may require in person resources will be handled individually on a pre-scheduled appointment basis. Please call the particular department in Town Hall or Annex building to schedule your appointment.

Residents and those having business with the Town are encouraged to use all online resources including the online permitting system for building permits, and online program for payment of taxes.

Sanitation and recycling will continue to operate on their normal schedule, and our Police and Fire Departments will continue to be fully operational.

All Town Board and Commission meetings will be cancelled or postponed until further notice.

For anyone having questions or needing help pertaining to the virus please do not call 911, you are encouraged to contact your primary healthcare provider. As an alternative you may contact whichever healthcare delivery system your physician is affiliated with: Hartford Health Care's COVID-19 Clinical Command Center hotline available 24 hours at 860-972-8100 or (toll-free) at 833-621-0600 or Yale New Haven Health at 833-275-9644 Monday – Friday, 7:00 am – 7:00 pm.

Please check the Town's website at www.northhaven-ct.gov and Facebook for updated information.
